New York boxing fans are getting next to some of the stars who refuse to take a chance, and it will not be such easy saffing for them.

Dick Klegan, globe trotter and fight manager and promoter, arrived in the big city from Europe the other day. Dick had been through Germany, Russia and Spain and had his passport beautifully decorated to prove it. Dick became tired of "batching" it, so he married an American girl in London six months ago. He celebrated the event at Shanley's Cafe, on the Great White Way, by emptying a few bottles of what made Bob Vernon fangous and had among his guests Bat Masterson, Ben Harris, Jimmy Connery, Richard Kane, Nat Goodwin and Harry Harris, Dick stated that he helped Jack Johnson stage a boxing match and buil fight at Barcerolons, Spain, and he was lucky to escape with his life. He was obliged to kidnap an English longshoreman to fight Jack but the fellow refused to stand up and the crowd hooted. Then Jack Johnson, in all his regalia, played the part of banderillo and matadore in one. The exchampion succeeded in killing the first bull, but Dick claims the animal died of fright at seeing Jack's gold teeth. Great applause for Mistah Jack and much bowing. Then came the second buil—a regular Teddy—and he bellowed like the real goods. Jack put the banderillos (stackers) into Mr. Bull's shoulder and there was much noise. Jack beat the bull charged in the red cape as the bull charged in t he is willing to try again, Dick says, but he will have to show the Spanish sports first that he can deliver. Jack is making a little money with his cafe and also is howing whenever he can get an opponent a little money with his cafe and also is boxing whenever he can get an opponent to go against. Klegan says Johnson is sorry he did not return to Chicago long ago and serve his year's time, as he is analous to return. If he knew he would be given no more than the year he would in all probability come back and take his medicine and then settle down in Chicago. Mr. Klegan expects to bring Georges Carpentler over here after the war.

Ritchie Mitchell, the Milwaukee lightweight contender for Freddy Welsh's crown, made his eastern debut before the National Athletic Cub of Philadelphia, when he met Eddie McAndrews, the Quasier city boy, in a six-round bout, which we won by a good margin of points, which we won by a good margin of points, which we won by a good margin of points, which we won by a good margin of points, which we won by a good margin of points, which we won by a good margin of points, which we way McAndrews who have taken a pair of the work of the way of the way of the work of the work of the way of the work of there appeared to be no hope for Griffo, but the few friends who stuck by him worked wonders with the former ring marvel, and today he looks like a real business man with his gray hair. He has a snap to his step now and recently really surprised his friends by boxing with much of his old-time cleverness at a benefit given for a downand-out sporting man. Griffo still has a-longing to visit his native land once more, and if he does it is possible that he will be induced to show at some of the vaudeville houses in a short monologue and at the same time give an exhibition of his old-time skill. In conversation with Griffo the other day the once famous fighter said:

"It has been a wonderful thing for me to live like a man the past year and realize what I have missed. Why, I hever lived before—I merely existed—and not untill my good friends here set me away from John Barleycorn did the said and run to first mark of the eaway from John Barleycorn did the said since throw was made by Jimmy 1 Smith, who flung the ball 368 feet and 5 inches, far short of the record.

Sporting Editor Star:

To settle an argument will you kindly state in Sunday's Star the average number of hits per game allowed by Babe Ruth and Walter Johnson during the past season?

T. J. G.

It will be impossible to give these figures until the official American League averages are issued.

Sporting Editor Star:
Will you please state in your sport sheet next Sunday whether George Dumont still belongs to the Washington cub, and also what disposition was made of him during the latter part of the season?
W. E. S. Dumont is the property of the Wash-ington club, having been placed with the Minneapolis club of the American Association last fall.

Sporting Editor Star:

Kindly publish in inquiry column the dates of the University of Virginia foot ball games. Very truly yours, sixth hole in his match against J. S. Morris on Friday morning. His tee shot was thirty yards wire of the green, and he sank his run-up for a 2. Another rather peculiar thing happened to Gilman Brenizer. The latter entirely missed the ball on the third tee, and then put it on the green, holing the putt for a 3 with a penalty on a very hard par 3 hole.

Bannockburn tournament.

A man who had never hit a golf ball before went out to the Kirkside Golf Club last week and played around with one of the members. He got along fairly well until he came to the short eighth hole, where the distance looked long enough for him to use a driver. So, against the caddie's advice, he took out the wooden club and let go. All unexpectedly he really got hold of the ball and it wanished, going strong in the general direction of the Connecticut avenue car tracks. It was never and and the novice still wonders him he hit that ball and whether he will ever do it again. The club championship of the Washington Golf and Country Club has west.

When a recapitulation of the season's performances on the golf courses about the Capital city is made at the close of the tournament period several new players must be given a place, to supersede those who for some reason have not played as well this year as in past years. The rain on the second day of the Bannockburn tournament did not reduce the quality of the gold displayed, and got the course into fine shape for the final day. It is doubtful if there was ever any better weather for a final match than that which prevalled yesterday. The sun shone all day and the wind was bracing and not strong enough to interfere with the golf.

But one 4 was made on the first hole at Bannockburn on the qualifying day. This was made by M. Dorset, who holed his mashie run-up.
